

National Agreement on Closing the Gap Ongoing Joint Communications Strategy

AGREED BY THE JOINT COUNCIL ON CLOSING THE GAP JUNE 2023

- Australian Capital Territory Government
- Northern Territory Government
- Australian Local Government Association

OBJECTIVES

The Strategy is designed to:

- Build awareness and ownership of the National Agreement amongst Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people (Clause 132).
- Support ongoing engagement with Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people, organisations, and communities to build awareness and ownership of the National Agreement, and how to apply its commitments to communities and organisations across the country (Clause 133a).
- Provide for a central role for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander media, in particular community-controlled media that includes the production, promotion, and distribution of materials and information across a range of mediums to Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people, as well as to other Australians (Clause 135).
- Ensure all communications under the National Agreement are accessible and work to preserve the many Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander languages (Clause 136).
- Ensure communications are developed and implemented in partnership and with shared ownership between the Coalition of Peaks and Australian governments (Clause 17a).
- Proactively deliver clear, timely, relevant, and accessible information about the National Agreement in ways that meet local, place-based needs, and interests.
- Enhance the trust, credibility, reliability, accountability, and reputation of the National Agreement among Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander stakeholders.
- Build the positive reputation of the National Agreement by promoting its progress and outcomes to the wider Australian community.
- Encourage and promote community-generated content and communications to further understanding of Closing the Gap.

The following principles guide implementation of this Strategy:

- The National Agreement will be publicly acknowledged when actions are taken to implement its outcomes, so that relevant stakeholders and audiences are well informed (Clause 97).
- Communication in every form must be easy to use, accessible, clear, and understood by all Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander communities and other Australians.

- Communication must be inclusive, purposeful, and timely.
- All communications will prioritise authentic voices and appropriate Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander languages.
- Place-based approaches and culturally appropriate communications will be prioritised.
- To the extent that the procurement and grant policies of parties allow, Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander media organisations will act as the core suppliers in producing and distributing information relevant to the Agreement to Aboriginal and Torres Strait people and other Australians, their organisations, and communities.
- Communications activities and decisions will be underpinned by the understanding that demonstrating early action that makes a tangible difference to the lives of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people is critical to ownership of the Agreement and its accountability.
- All parties acknowledge that Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people understanding and taking ownership of the National Agreement are critical to its successful implementation.

To ensure success and consistency:

- The Strategy will be agreed by the Joint Council on Closing the Gap and Partnership Working Group will receive updates on key issues in its implementation six-monthly.
- Each party is responsible for implementing communication actions in line with the Strategy and outlining these as part of Implementation Plans, including reporting on their communication actions as part of their annual reporting on implementation.
- In line with the National Agreement, the Strategy is a dynamic document that will be reviewed and revised as needed to ensure relevancy and best practice.

AUDIENCE

The Strategy has been developed with a primary and secondary audience in focus:

- The primary audiences for this Strategy are Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people, their organisations, and communities.
- The secondary audience is the wider Australian community, particularly to improve awareness of the issues and inequalities facing Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people, the importance of the National Agreement and its historic partnership approach, and to ensure strong systemic engagement with Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people.

KEY STAKEHOLDERS

The Strategy involves a wide number of stakeholders, with various responsibilities in relation to disseminating information and circulating key messages.

Broadly, this includes:

- Government Parties (Commonwealth, State and Local)
- Coalition of Peaks members and their members in turn
- Other community-controlled organisations
- Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander community-controlled media organisations and outlets
- Other Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander media outlets
- Mainstream media – metro and regional
- Wider Australian community

Priority order will vary according to communications initiative/message. A core component of this Strategy is that it asks all stakeholders to be actively engaged in and contributing to its success.

BUILDING OWNERSHIP THROUGH COMMUNITY-LED CONTENT DEVELOPMENT

Building understanding, support, and ownership from Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander communities and organisations involved in Closing the Gap and implementing the National Agreement is best supported by commissioning, encouraging, and promoting community-led content that is distributed through Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander community-controlled media.

The below ideas are examples of community-led content to spread key messages about the National Agreement.

- Community-controlled interviews or community profiles – engage mainstream and local media to host interviews that are community-led. Feature pieces, guided and owned by Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people – particularly young people – that appear on mainstream community broadcasters and media outlets can profile different communities, their families, their friends, or community-based activists. This will allow for young people to act as spokespeople for their communities on Closing the Gap or for activists to submit their opinion editorial pieces.
- Case studies – a series of case studies highlighting best practice and tangible ways in which the National Agreement has been implemented well and benefited community could be developed in partnership with jurisdictional peaks.
- Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander influencers and activists on social media – influencers and activists could be engaged to share messaging about the National Agreement with their audiences. A toolkit would need to be developed to support this.
- Engagement with jurisdictions – all parties could engage with their jurisdictional peaks to hear about community priorities and support development of appropriate and responsive National Agreement messaging.
- Closing the Gap communications toolkit – develop a toolkit that includes relevant content, branding, imagery, etc. so that all peaks, jurisdictions, and media outlets have the up-to-date and readily accessible information when discussing Closing the Gap.

FOCUS ON THE PRIORITY REFORMS AND PARTNERSHIP ACTIONS

A key focus of the Strategy is communication of activities and outcomes of the National Agreement's Priority Reforms. Under the Strategy, communities and community-controlled organisations could be commissioned by governments to tell their own stories of the importance of the Priority Reforms and show their implementation and associated partnership actions in practice.

For example, the implementation of each place-based partnership action – the community data projects and place-based partnerships – could be documented from the communities' and organisations' perspectives over a three-year period. The same story telling model could be adopted for the work and implementation of the sector strengthening plans and the policy partnerships, as well as on the funding for Priority Reform Two.

CENTRAL ROLE FOR ABORIGINAL AND TORRES STRAIT ISLANDER COMMUNITY CONTROLLED MEDIA

The National Agreement commits that Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander media, particularly community-controlled media, will have a central role in the delivery of the Strategy. To give effect to this commitment, to the extent that the procurement and grant policies of parties allow. Parties should undertake direct or limit tenders to Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander media and communications organisations, including community-controlled organisations, for the development and distribution of content developed under the Strategy.

To provide additional support to the Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander community-controlled media, parties could identify and consider opportunities to undertake promotional activities following Joint Council meetings or significant events related to Closing the Gap. Parties could also identify and consider opportunities to promote their work to implement the Priority Reforms and their work on the National Agreement through Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander media organisations.

DIRECT ENGAGEMENTS WITH ABORIGINAL AND TORRES STRAIT ISLANDER PEOPLE

The communications actions alone will not be sufficient to build the capacity of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people to take ownership and engage with governments on implementation of the National Agreement. They should be supported by a series of face-to-face engagements between the Coalition of Peaks, in partnership with governments, and community-controlled organisations and communities. The face-to-face engagements, occurring in each state and territory, should focus on supporting organisations and communities to build confidence in interacting with, and understanding the meaning and implications of the commitments in the National Agreement.

BUILDING AWARENESS AND SUPPORT FROM OTHER AUSTRALIANS

The Strategy is primarily focused on engaging Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people with the reforms and activities of the National Agreement. However, broader awareness and support from other Australians is also important to ensure that all Australians are supporting Closing the Gap in their own workplaces and lives. To truly close the gap, support and effort from all Australians will be required. Additional tools and materials are included in this Strategy to support this aim.

COMMUNICATIONS ACTIONS

The following sets out key actions that will be undertaken by parties to implement the Strategy, as part of their respective Implementation Plans.

RESOURCES AND PRODUCTS

Governments will develop communication actions in the Strategy in partnership with the Coalition of Peaks and outline these as part of their Implementation Plans. This includes reporting on their communication actions as part of their annual report.

Development and distribution of resources and communication products to support the communication actions and activities, to the extent that the procurement and grant policies of parties allow, will include a central role for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander media organisations.

The Coalition of Peaks will develop additional resources specific to their memberships and communities.

All resources will be co-branded under the Closing the Gap logo.

Resources and communication products should be available on each Parties' websites. These should be stored on the lead Parties' website and linked to from other Parties' websites, to ensure consistency and avoid out of date content remaining when updates are required.

Parties are encouraged to share materials with each other, for use or learnings for their own communication products. Parties are also encouraged to share communications products across platforms and cross promote on Peaks members' and Government social media whenever possible.

ENSURING SUCCESS – RESOURCING AND REPORTING

To ensure a successful implementation of the Strategy, Peaks and Government Parties must contribute to its roll-out, monitoring, and assessment. In particular:

- Implementing the communication actions will require resourcing from governments.
- Updates on key issues with implementation of the Strategy will be provided to PWG six-monthly.
- All parties will report on communication actions as part of their annual implementation updates through their Annual Reports and contribute to the six-monthly discussion at the Partnership Working Group on progress.
- The Strategy is a living document that is routinely reviewed and adjusted, when necessary, to take into account new opportunities for development and delivery.

To ensure and measure success of the Strategy, parties should:

- Involve Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people in relevant meetings, engagement, and feedback sessions.
- Track and analyse general feedback from audiences and the wider community, using these to further communications tactics.
- Provide advanced notification of interviews about the National Agreement, so that departments can properly prepare so that departments can properly prepare.
- Identify recognition and acceptance of the National Agreement among stakeholders through surveys, in meeting feedback and anecdotally.

- Measure website hits and traffic through website data and analytics.
- Record overall communications activities as part of Joint Council papers and communique.
